(Washington, D.C.) - On Thursday, October 8, 2009, Congressman Steve Rothman (D-Fair Lawn) met with members of the Commerce and Industry Association of New Jersey (CIANJ). The group met with Rep. Rothman to share their views on various health care reform options currently being considered by Congress. Members of CIANJ and Rep. Rothman agreed on the importance of slowing the out-of-control growth of health care costs through reform.

CIANJ represents close to 950 members across a wide range of businesses and industries. The association represents its members by advocating for free enterprise, also working to improve the economic environment within the State of New Jersey.
