

Congressman Rothman Questions Homeland Security Chief

While testifying before the House Appropriations Homeland Security Subcommittee on Thursday, February 25, 2010, Secretary of the Department of Homeland Security Janet Napolitano answers questions from Congressman Steve Rothman (D-NJ), a member of the Homeland Security Subcommittee, about strengthening security procedures at Newark International Airport, further reducing the risk of terrorist attacks against New Jersey's chemical and industrial plants, and protecting religious and other nonprofit organizations that have been deemed to be potential terrorist targets.
