Washington, DC — Today, Congressman Steve Rothman (NJ-9) announced that he received a perfect score on the United Food and Commercial Workers International Union (UFCW) Congressional Scorecard.

“I am honored to receive a perfect score from the United Food and Commercial Workers International Union,” said Congressman Rothman. “Workers, like the members of the UFCW, are the backbone of our nation’s economy. We must continue to fight for workers’ rights and an economy that works for all Americans.”

The UFCW judged members of Congress on their commitment to America’s working families. The bills that were scored each had or would have had a real-life impact on the members the UFCW represents in retail, grocery, and meatpacking.

“On behalf of the 1.3 million members of the UFCW, I commend Congressman Rothman for standing with working families in 2011,” said UFCW President Joe Hansen. “Receiving an ‘A’ on the UFCW Congressional Scorecard shows his commitment to creating jobs, growing the middle class, and protecting workers’ rights.”

“In a Congress where an overwhelming majority of members received F’s, Congressman Rothman stood out as a true champion of workers,” Hansen said. “I look forward to working with him to accomplish even greater things in 2012.”
