Washington, DC &ndash; On Wednesday July 25, 2012, Congressman Steve Rothman (D-NJ) welcomed Shadi Ghrayeb, a Fort Lee resident and delegate to the Nuclear Engineering Student Delegation, to his Washington, DC office. Shadi is a nuclear engineering student at Penn State University. The student and the Congressman discussed the importance of continued federal support for advanced nuclear science and engineering education. The Nuclear Engineering Student Delegation is an independently organized program which provides students studying nuclear science and engineering hands-on experience with the political process.
